Cont'd from Pg. 1:

"All bands are still judged in their respective classes and still compete against others in the same class size. [Mr. Gee's] hope is that some smaller bands can register earlier enough and play during a time they do not regularly get to compete in."

MAKING HISTORY!

PGHS opened its doors to students in August 2008. Three years later under the direction of Eric Gee, a talented musician and teacher in his own right who has many years of experience with Marching Band Competitions, we are excited and proud to invite you to PGHS's second Marching Band Competition. Our new campus surrounded by farm land in a small rural community will provide a scenic and welcoming environment for you and your Band Members.
